To prepare students for spontaneous conversation where they are expected to express ideas and opinions that could arise in an interview/workplace. Making writing interesting by including connectives, intensifiers, verbs, adjectives, and negatives. This would be advantageous at university or when writing a CV.
To make students aware of different cultures and diversities. This will prepare students for a deeper understanding of diverse workplace culture and respect all traditions.
To encourage skills such as ‘reading and listening for the gist’ or ‘scanning’ which can be taken into any job role to save time and be efficient. Other skills such as listening and responding would also help in a business or university environment
